AgilePath Appoints Chief Technology Officer and Chief Architect

New CTO to Focus on Federal Government Business Growth

NEWBURYPORT, MA – (March 31, 2008) – AgilePath Corporation, the industry’s leading vendor-independent service-oriented architecture (SOA) consulting firm, today announced the appointment of two technology executives to its management team.

Mr. Umesh Vemuri has joined AgilePath Corporation as Chief Technology Officer for its Federal Government business unit. In this role, Mr. Vemuri will spearhead AgilePath’s overall technology strategy and roadmap, client delivery strategy and business development for AgilePath’s Federal Government clients. In addition, AgilePath appointed Mr. Alan Belisle as Chief Architect. In this position, Mr. Belisle will lead AgilePath’s overall client delivery, including technical solution development, technical methodology and implementation.

“I’m pleased to welcome Umesh Vemuri as CTO of our Federal Government business, and to appoint Alan Belisle as our Chief Architect,” stated AgilePath President and CEO Eric Marks. “AgilePath now has one of the finest technical leadership teams in the industry without exception. This team positions AgilePath for our next phase of growth and innovation going forward.”

“I am extremely excited to be joining the AgilePath leadership team as CTO for the Federal Government Business Unit during this phase of accelerated growth,” stated Mr. Vemuri. “The AgilePath SOA Playbook™ Family of Methodologies has been rapidly adopted in both public and private sector organizations, and I look forward to expanding AgilePath’s established SOA thought leadership to drive the next stage of AgilePath’s growth.” Mr. Vemuri previously held the position of Chief Architect, Department of Defense Programs for BEA Systems, Inc., as well as technology leadership positions at America Online, Inc.

Mr. Belisle joined AgilePath in 2007. He brings sixteen years of industry experience providing architectural and strategy guidance, and has successfully lead multiple SOA implementations with Fortune 500 and small business clients. Prior to his SOA focus, he developed significant subject matter expertise in distributed computing and systems integration.

“AgilePath has a proven track record for helping clients not only adopt SOA but also in defining and implementing effective strategies around SOA governance,” Mr. Belisle explained. “It's an honor to be associated with AgilePath, and I look forward to taking our innovative technical solutions and methodologies to the next level.”
